Bottero S.p.A

We know glass, we love glass

Description:

Bottero is an Italian group that has been specialising in the production of glass processing machines since 1957. Over the years we have developed our offer in three product categories: flat glass, hollow glass and special systems. We are now global leaders in these sectors and operate on an international scale with our plants and branches in Italy, Germany, France, the UK, the US, China and Brazil.

Over time, we have been able to anticipate our customers' needs, redefining product standards and process performance in the glass sector.

We promote innovation by devoting attention and studying the direct experience of the end user. The development of new technologies and the many related patents is applied to the quality of the materials selected by trusted suppliers and the care devoted to the product from start to finish and followed by our professionals.

Bottero works with small and medium-sized companies, and with large international groups, for which we design and make complete tailor-made production lines. Our unparalleled competitive edge is highlighted by the technology we make and by the variety of solutions that ensure we meet every new need by creating automated and integrated systems.
